COURT FINDS CLUB WAS "BLIND TIGER"

Jack Stewart, President Lincoln Way Club, Fined $100 and Costs.

And the lights which glowed from the dark recesses along the crest of the river bank will gleam no longer. No longer will the weary traveler and member be welcomed from the dusty pavements of Lincoln highway to the pool, inviting confines of the old St. Joe Country clubhouse, for it came to pass Friday afternoon that old Jack Stewart, president and caretaker by his own words, of the Lincoln Way club, was found guilty by Special Judge John W. Schindler in the city police court of operating a "blind tiger," contrary to the laws of Indiana. The finding of the court Friday afternoon automatically locks the alleged ice box which formerly, according to the testimony of club members in the trial, contained the spirituous and invigorating refreshments which it was the opinion of the court, stimulated the membership to over 640 members during the past three months.

Mr. Stewart was fined $100 and costs amounting to about $110 and given a suspended jail sentence of 30 days. The jail sentence was suspended on condition that Stewart close the club immediately. No appeal to a higher court was asked and the fine was stayed.

Stewart Explains.
When the case opened Friday morning a great interest was evidenced, the court room being packed to capacity. However, during the trial, which contained the sensational in the testimony, each witness answering the questions without any noticeable expressions of fear or antagonistic actions with the exception of the first few witnesses who appeared hostile toward the prosecution.

The most interesting testimony of the trial was the story of the "system" carried on at the clubhouse by Stewart. According to Stewart's testimony, he insisted that no beer was sold at the club, it was only purchased by the steward for the members and kept for their visits. Explaining the testimony of state witnesses who declared that they had bought the beer at the clubhouse, paying 15 cents per bottle, Stewart said that he borrowed the beer from the lockers of other members who had previously ordered it and that a record was kept of every bottle taken from the lockers and replaced by the funds received from the members who had purchased the beer coming from the lockers. He also explained the testimony given that beer was taken from an ice box and not from lockers, by stating that the beer was cold and in a fit condition for consumption and exchanged for the beer in the lockers which was not. However a point was scored when Deputy Prosecutor Sam Schwartz asked Stewart what he did with the money which was obtained by the exchanges, inasmuch as a bottle of beer which was purchased for 15 cents did not cost the club but a small amount. A good point was also gained when the prosecutor asked regarding the initiation fees of 50 cents and attempted to determine how the expenses of the club was kept up by this small amount. Stewart explained that he was paid a salary and that the club owed him money and was otherwise in debt.

No arguments were made by either the attorney for the defendant or the prosecution. Atty. Sands of South Bend acted in behalf of Stewart.

The ninth annual field day and outing for the employees of the Dodge Manufacturing Co. of this city was the subject of discussion at a meeting of the officials and factory heads of the concern held Friday noon.

MUNITION STORY DENIED BY HEAD OF DODGE CO.

The Dodge Manufacturing Co. of this city is not in the munitions business nor has it any intention of getting into the same, according to Prest M. W. Mix. Thus the sensational item in an afternoon paper of Friday night is "busted" flat. Two French army officers, Capt. Michel and Belin, were in the city Friday as guests of Mr. Mix, who entertained them at luncheon in the Hotel Mishawaka, where they were introduced to several of the heads of the Dodge company. During their short stay in the city they were shown through the Dodge plant and also that of the National Veneer.

The officers are in this country as representatives of the French government and are looking after the orders for munitions placed with various firms throughout the United States for the allies. Their visit to Mishawaka was purely a social one. They had heard much of the city's industries in Europe and being enroute to Chicago stopped off here to pay their respects to Mr. Mix, who stated Friday night that the Dodge company was not after any contracts for munitions and had never even considered the possibility of manufacturing them at any stage of the war.

RECOVERY IS DOUBTFUL

Tubercular meningitis was said by physicians at Epworth hospital to have complicated the operation recently performed upon Ray McConnel of Roselawn for tuberculosis of the spine. The new disease became apparent to attending physicians Saturday morning, and little hope was held out for the victim's recovery. In an effort to save his life some time ago, a piece of his spine bone was grafted into the diseased portion of his vertebrae.

SCHOOL BOARD AWARDS 800-TON COAL CONTRACT

At the meeting of the school board held Friday evening the contract for supplying the 800 tons of coal for the various public schools of the city for next winter was awarded. The contract was split between two bidders, the Rose & Ziegler Co. of South Bend getting 400 tons and the Detroit & Pittsburgh Coal Co. getting the other half of the contract.

Little other business of importance was transacted by the board Friday evening. The summer school which has been connected this year will close within the next two weeks.

CHAUTAQUA GOERS GIVEN MUSIC TREAT

night's program, an American piece written by Lee Johnson, "The Death of Custer," will probably prove to be one of the biggest hits of the whole evening. The rapid swing of the music as the battle of Little Big Horn begins indicates the swiftness of the attack, the success of the Indians, and the desperateness with which the American soldiers succumb. This is an American fantastic, and advance reports indicate, the most popular selection on the program for the two concerts.

Senor Pallaria has also consented to play several sacred selections Sunday evening at the chautauque tent at the union services which will be addressed by Dr. James L. Gardiner. The meeting is to start at 8 o'clock.

Scores Success.
Never before has popular science scored such a distinct success as it did last night when Montraville Wood and his daughter, Miss Aliene, entertained the large chautauque audience with demonstrations of the ultra-violet rays and the gyroscope. There are only two machines in this country that can produce the ultra-violet ray, the one is in the Edison company's plant and the other is used by Mr. Wood in his demonstrations.

Through the use of this ultra-violet ray, he demonstrated the possibility of storing up light without the use of a dynamo or chemical. A substance which produces a reaction has been found which stores up light as well as the other tests to which he put the ray included "the handwriting on the wall," and showing the prismatic colors which the ray will produce on certain substances. The effects of celluloid through which the ray cannot penetrate were vividly shown.

Demonstrates Gyroscope.
Explaining in great detail the uses to which the ray may be put to, Mr. Wood followed these demonstrations with exhibitions of the gyroscope. He showed the use of the gyroscope in aeroplanes, told how it may be used in submarines, lake vessels that plow through the ice in winter, etc.

He wound up his description with a practical demonstration showing the centrifugal force the gyroscope exerts. He sent a monogram out over the heads of his audience and a small aeroplane.

Preceding the popular science lecture and demonstration, the Orchestral club entertained with a prelude. Van Allen used the famous violin owned by John W. Williams of this city during the evening entertainment. The violin aside from its historical value, has a monetary worth of over $600. It is a Billine violin.

FALL TWO STORIES AT FACTORY; HURT LITTLE

Bricks Dash Men Into Basement from Scaffold, But Injuries Are Said to Be Slight.

Two men had narrow escapes from death and were badly bruised when they were knocked from a scaffold at the Studebaker plant Saturday morning, and fell two stories down an elevator shaft into the basement. They were Ollie Engle, 31 years old, and Frank Fall, 24 years old, of Kenwood av. Engle lives at 807 E. Ninth st., River Park.

The two men were tearing the brick out from a doorway past which the elevator was being built, when the upper part of the doorway collapsed and struck them about the head and shoulders. They were dashed from the scaffold down into the basement, striking upon a pile of timbers and bricks. That they were not killed or more seriously injured, is considered miraculous by fellow workmen.

Engle was hurt the worst, suffering severe bodily bruises and sprained ligaments in his shoulders and arms. Fall received a severe scalp wound and minor cuts and bruises about his body.

RECOVERY IS DOUBTFUL

Tubercular meningitis was said by physicians at Epworth hospital to have complicated the operation recently performed upon Ray McConnel of Roselawn for tuberculosis of the spine. The new disease became apparent to attending physicians Saturday morning, and little hope was held out for the victim's recovery. ## MANY PEOPLE ARE TRAPPED IN HOLD

Eighty-one bodies had been recovered up to 10:15 a. m. With acetylene torches, electric drills and steel saws, a large force of men worked untiringly to open wider the vents in the steel hull of the vessel. Meanwhile others were working inside the hull of the vessel, fastening bodies to ropes which were drawn through the port holes and jagged opening cut by the saws.

The first two bodies identified were those of Mrs. Charles E. Campbell, found submerged in her state room, and Miss Pauline Zantak, taken from the hold.

People Pack Bridge.
A second tragedy was narrowly averted, when the police discovered that the crowds of spectators of the accident had crowded the Clark st. bridge beyond the safety point. The bridge was sagging when a squad of police made the crowd move on.

Capt. Denman and his policemen had a terrific struggle with friends and relatives of the victims of the disaster, who surged about the narrow landing, frantic to reach the capsized boat. The policemen beat the crazed mob back with clubs. Every time a new group was rescued from the water there was a fresh rush of the maddened crowd on the Clark st. bridge and boat landing. Many persons suffered bruised heads in the battle with the police.

Every police and hospital ambulance within a radius of more than a mile was rushed to the Clark st. bridge. As fast as tug boats and small craft in the neighborhood could bring up a boatload, they were loaded into the ambulances and patrol wagons and rushed to the nearest hospitals.

Turned Quickly.
So quickly did the Eastland turn over that many of the passengers remaining in the vessel fell into the water. As soon as the accident happened, calls for help immediately crammed all telephone wires in the downtown district.

The river was dotted for a city block with the bobbing heads of passengers. From the overturned hull, turned so far that it showed the keel, came the shrieking and wailing of men, women and children.

Girls clung to the side of the boat, tearing their clothing off in preparation for a desperate effort to swim to shore.

Twenty policemen early on the scene, were dispatched on a trip of confiscation to take possession of every steel saw, electric drill and other tool that could be used to pierce the steel plates of the ship and release the passengers held prisoners in the hold.

The first party of rescuers who reached the hold took out 30 bodies. They said there was not a chance of finding any of the hundreds of men, women and children still in the hold. While the work of delving into the hold was going on with as much rapidity as was possible, every possible effort was being made to bring to shore those who were clinging to the hull of the overturned steamer, and the other hundreds who were in the water.

Policemen on the docks tossed huny-dreds of life preservers into the water and threw out life lines onto the ship, succeeding in dragging scores to safety.

As spectators on shore watched, they saw three young boys lose their hold on the perilous place and slip into the water. They appeared on the surface for a minute and then disappeared.

City firemen worked for an hour before they reached the hold. Those on shore saw them bring out the first bodies, those of a man and a little child. Several women in the crowd fainted. The firemen handed these over to a tugboat crew and disappeared into the dangerous trap to attempt to bring up other victims.

DANCING PAVILION GIVES UNIQUE PARTY

One of the neatest parties ever held at Springbrook's dancing pavilion was given Friday night in the form of a snowball ball. A special orchestra provided the music for the dancers. The hall was decorated with hundreds of different colored electric lights.

During the moonlight dances, a searchlight played about the pavilion. Snow, in the form of confetti was blown over the dancers by means of fans, and long tissue paper ribbons were thrown about. Favors were given in snowballs made of cotton.

Miss Ruby Higgs, social hostess, was in charge.

COMPROMISE DAMAGE SUIT FOR $3,500

The case of Nellie Flack against the South Shore & Michigan Southern Railroad Co., brought last September in the superior court, was compromised Friday afternoon for $3,500. The plaintiff had sued for $25,000 for personal injuries. Floyd O. Jellison represented the plaintiff.

It was alleged by the plaintiff that on Oct. 2, 1912, when she was on her way home at 1219 S. High st. from the
